Many Monarchists Held in Vienna Cells; Surrender of All Arms Ordered

VIENNA, March 22—(UP)—Duke Maximilian and Duke Ernest of Hohenberg, sons of the assassinated Archduke Francis Ferdinand, and whose death led to the World War, were arrested today.

Both dukes are prominent in the monarchist movement. Other members of the Hapsburg family were not arrested.

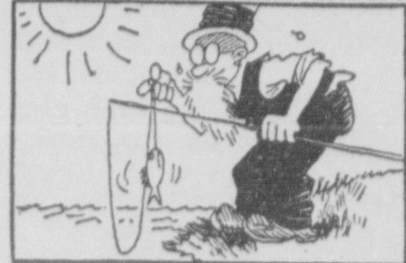

OIL WELL MAY BE DUG ON SCHOOL LAND IN SOUTH

BATON ROUGE, La., March 22—(UP)—Plans for drilling of an oil well on Louisiana State university property were speeded today after a wildcat well came in within 300 feet of the school's tract.

The well, of unestimated production, was sunk in the south Louisiana and Texas salt dome geological formation. It produced at 6,500 feet.

The well, first producer in East Baton Rouge parish, was watched with considerable interest by school authorities. The dome was traced directly beneath school property. William Helis, president of the New Orleans company, announced last week plans for a well in event the wildcat came in.

PLAN FOR RT. 22 CHANGES TOLD AT C. C. SESSION

Elimination Of Several Curves Provided In State Program

TURNER, OTHERS SPEAK

Highway Passable At All Times Promised

Improvement of Route 22, west of the Scioto river, will provide a roadway that will be passable during flood seasons but will make no change in the existing flow of flood waters, Frank W. Turner, of Washington C. H., state highway engineer for Division No. 6, told members of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday noon.

Complete plans for the highway improvement were explained by Mr. Turner, Joseph Morrissey of London, assistant division engineer, and R. O. Nelson of Worthington, bridge engineer.

A large part of the present roadway will be used in the improvement. The plans include using the present roadway to a point as far as the second curve west of the river bridge. The first curve west of the bridge would be made longer and the sharpness eliminated.

Beginning at the second curve west of the bridge a new highway would be constructed making a long curve north of the present roadway. This would take the new section between the Bass and Foreman homes and the curve would rejoin Route 22 at the Howard L. Thomas property.

The present highway would be raised eight feet and three trestles covering a distance of 1,800 feet, would be constructed. By this plan, the engineers explained, the improvement would provide as much space for flood waters to escape as the present highway provides.

Piers of the old aqueduct and the west abutment would be removed and the stone used in the construction of the spillways at the trestles.

40 OHIO SCHOOL PUPILS INJURED AS BUS-CAR HIT

RISE SUN, O., March 22—(UP)—Forty pupils were cut and bruised today when the bus in which they were riding collided with an automobile and overturned a block from the school.

The bus, driven by George Shreffler, 50, collided with the automobile of Mrs. George Phillips. Mrs. Phillips' car stopped when it struck the home of E. E. Parsons after glancing off the bus. Mrs. Phillips was unhurt but her granddaughter, Charmain Strawn, 4, was taken to a Fostoria hospital with a severe head injury.

The steel construction of the bus and safety glass prevented them from being hurt seriously. They were able to walk to school after being treated.

WARM SPRINGS BECKONS F. D. R. FOR SHORT REST

WASHINGTON, March 22—(UP)—President Roosevelt leaves the capital tonight for a 10 day vacation at Warm Springs, Ga.

The only official engagement of the trip is scheduled tomorrow at Gainesville, Ga., where he will speak at the dedication of a new town square named for him. The address will be at 11 a. m.

Mr. Roosevelt has postponed a visit to Gainesville several times within the last six months—once when an infected tooth forced him to cut short a Florida vacation.

The central section of Gainesville was destroyed a year ago by a tornado. It has been rebuilt with the aid of federal funds.

From Gainesville, Mr. Roosevelt will go directly to his special cottage near the buildings of the Warm Springs infantile paralysis foundation. He will arrive there late tomorrow afternoon.

CRITICISM OF SHIRLEY COSTS MAGAZINE $17,500

LONDON, March 22—(UP)—Settlement of libel suit between Shirley Temple, American child actress, and the magazine "Night and Day," was announced today by the king's bench division of the English high court.

Under the settlement the actress will receive $10,000, the 20th Century-Fox Film Corporation of America, $5,000 and the 20th Century Fox Film Co., of England $2,500.

The suit was in connection with an article criticizing the child's acting.

C. K. HUNSICKER TO SEEK OFFICE

Representative Is Completing His Second Term As Assembly Member

Clark K. Hunsicker, W. Union street, announced Tuesday that he will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Ohio general assembly, subject to the August primary.

Mr. Hunsicker, who operates an elevator at Williamsport, is completing his second term in the state legislature. He has held several important appointments, including a place on the finance committee during both of his terms.

In announcing his candidacy, Mr. Hunsicker pointed out that all other elective positions in the county are for four year terms each, while the representative's job is for only two years.

DUFFY TO SEEK MONEY TO CARRY ON HIS INQUIRY

COLUMBUS, March 22—(UP)—Attorney General Herbert Duffy was expected to ask the state board of control today for $20,000 to continue his investigation of alleged pardon and parole "buying."

The board has refused a request of the special Franklin county parole grand jury for that amount for its investigation on the ground that the jury lacked the legal right to make such an application. The board suggested that the attorney general make the request.

The grand jury recessed until called by Duffy after a one-day session, Monday. If no more funds are granted, it probably will not be recalled until after the perjury trial of Andrew Marino, Youngstown, who was a witness before the parole grand jury.

Leland S. Dougan, former chairman of the state parole board, testified before the grand jury for a short time yesterday. He signed a waiver of immunity from future prosecution, Duffy said. Dougan told reporters he had been waiting eight months to "tell my side of the story."

Dougan will be recalled if the grand jury meets again, Duffy said.

GREW PRESENTS CLAIM OF U. S. FOR PANAY LOSS

WASHINGTON, March 22—(UP)—The American government has formally presented its bill to Japan for loss of life, personal injuries and damages sustained Dec. 12 when Japanese bombing planes sank the American gunboat Panay, the state department revealed today.

The claim was presented to the Japanese foreign office by American Ambassador Joseph E. Grew on instructions from Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

State department officials declined to reveal the amount of damages asked. Unofficial sources have estimated the claim would run anywhere from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000.

State department officials have been compiling data and figures for months on which to base the claim.

In addition to destruction and sinking of the Panay, three American Standard Oil ships were destroyed in the attack by Japanese bombing planes.

CROWD LAUGHS, JOKES AS THREE GO TO GALLOWES

Men Who Abducted Aged Anti-Saloon League Official Hanged

FLAW MARS EXECUTION

Adkins Falls Into Pit Without Noose

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., March 22—(UP)—Three men were hanged at West Virginia penitentiary last night under circumstances which led Warden C. E. Stone to announce today that only official witnesses and newspapermen would be permitted to watch future executions.

Some of his 80 guests in the death chamber had laughed and joked despite his admonitions.

There was a technical flaw also in last night's hangings, in which Arnett Booth, 46, Orville Adkins, 25, and John Travis, 25, paid the supreme penalty for having kidnapped Dr. James I. Seder, former superintendent of the West Virginia, New Mexico, Wisconsin, and Massachusetts chapters of the Anti-Saloon league. Adkins was dropped through the trap before the noose was put around his neck.

He was picked up in the gallow's pit, carried back to the platform, and hanged properly.

The condemned, in their weeks in prison, had become very religious and when led forth to the gallows were exultant, almost eager to die. Because the gallows could accommodate but two men at a time, the warden flipped a coin and Booth won. He was to die last.

Guests Laugh, Joke

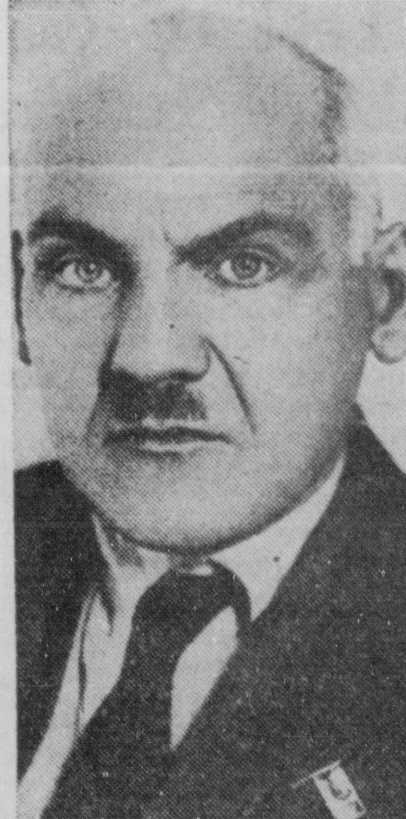

After Travis and Adkins had climbed the 13 steps of the gallows in the high-ceilinged execution chamber, 80 of Warden Stone's guests—including one woman—were ushered in. There was much laughter and joking among them, which continued despite repeated admonitions from the warden for silence.

Just as Adkins wetted his lips preparatory to speaking the trap under his feet collapsed and he shot down 12 feet to the concrete floor of the pit. Since his arms and legs were bound, he keeled over on his side, blood coming from a gash in his right cheek and the scraped flesh of his right hand. Prison guards ran down the gallow's steps and carried him back to the platform, where he was permitted to stand to one side while the trap catch was tested and retested.

At last the trap was ready and the noose was put around his neck. Travis had waited with the noise around his neck, and since the fall had quieted the audience, he spoke first.

"I wish to meet everyone in this auditorium some day in Heaven," (Continued on Page Eight)

REBELS SHATTER LOYALIST LINES IN HUESCA AREA

ARAGON FRONT, Spain, March 22—(UP)—Nationalist troops attacked northwest of Huesca today, breaking through the Loyalist front at several points and driving several miles from Penbolea toward Lierta.

The attack began at 7:30 a. m. along a front of approximately 20 miles. It was preceded by three hours of intense artillery and aviation fire, after which the infantry moved up and occupied a series of heights.

The Loyalists were still resisting from the vicinity of the heights with machine guns but the Nationalist infantry was nearing the village of Lierta, an extreme point of the enemy line.

CHIEF OF T.V.A. FACES OUSTER OR SUSPENSION

Agreement On Probe Form Not Yet Determined By Congress Leaders

CHAIRMAN GOES TO OHIO

Two Courses Open, President Tells Official

WASHINGTON, March 22—(UP)—Congressional investigation of the Tennessee Valley authority appeared certain today despite the probability that President Roosevelt would dismiss or suspend its chairman, Dr. Arthur E. Morgan.

Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, D. Ky., said it was "generally understood" that some inquiry would be undertaken. Speaker William B. Bankhead asserted that the President was making no effort to avoid an investigation.

Agreement on the exact form of investigation form of investigation has not been reached, but it was indicated that action would be taken regardless of the move Mr. Roosevelt makes today when his latest ultimatum expires.

Yesterday he ordered Dr. Morgan to withdraw his charges against his co-directors, Harcourt A. Morgan and David E. Lillenthal, or resign. If he fails to do one or the other by 2:30 p. m. today, the President said, he will be dismissed or suspended.

Removal Challenged

Dr. Morgan defied the ultimatum. He said that he did not intend to resign and challenged the President's power to remove him. He left the capital last night for Yellow Springs, O., the seat of Antioch college where he formerly was president. He did not communicate with the White House before (Continued on Page Eight)

ALL HOPE GONE FOR FINDING OF MISSING PLANE

FRESNO, Cal., March 22—(UP)—Officials of Transcontinental and Western airlines today announced that they had abandoned hope of finding the airliner that was lost in the Sierra Nevada mountains March 1, until the snow melts this summer. Nine persons were aboard the plane.

All airplanes have been withdrawn from the search. A few natives of the mountainous area are still plodding through the snows, hoping for the $5,000 reward that T. W. A. offered for the plane's recovery. At one time, two weeks ago, a fleet of 60 planes including army and navy craft were assembled at Fresno for the search but weather conditions presently kept them grounded.

Fresh snow that in some places measured as much as six feet has fallen since the twin-motored plane disappeared on a flight from San Francisco to Los Angeles.

The last report from Pilot John Graves came when he was in the Shaver and Bass lake areas, 60 miles northeast of here. It was in that vicinity that the search was concentrated.

Before his radio failed, Graves reported that he was forced to turn back over the Tehachapi mountains. He was trapped in a rain-storm.

200 Antioch Students Cheer Dr. Morgan

XENIA, March 22—(UP)—Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, was granted by 200 students and faculty members of Antioch college when he arrived here by train today on his way to his Yellow Springs home.

Dr. Morgan, center of a bitter dispute within the TVA, formerly was Antioch president.

The greeting at the railroad station here was entirely informal. There was no speech-making. Dr. Morgan declined to expand on his statement of yesterday that he would not yield to President Roosevelt's suggestion that he resign or withdraw his charges against the co-directors of TVA.

As he stepped from the train, Dr. Morgan smiled broadly at the enthusiastic reception. He posed for several camera "shots" and signed autographs for students.

Dr. Morgan said he would remain at his Yellow Springs home for "several days." Although he did not comment on the present T.V.A. controversy, he said he might have a statement later in the day.

He said he wanted to transact "some business" while at home. He said there were some T.V.A. records there that he wanted to go over.

When asked if he thought he had been treated fairly, Dr. Morgan turned away and said: "Where are my grips?"

He will visit with his sons, Grissom and Ernest, while at home.

W. B. Alexander represented the Antioch faculty at the train reception.

EUROPE FEARS NEW DISPUTES IN BALKAN AREA

Trouble Not Ended Between
Poland and Lithuania,
Capitals Hear

ULTIMATUM TEMPERED

First Press Dispatches
Filed From Kaunas

WARSAW, March 22 — (UP)—New trouble may soon arise between Poland and Lithuania to plague Europe's chancelleries with the threat of war, it was indicated today.

Circles close to the government feared that what they hoped would be the food for a love feast between the two countries might prove hard to digest.

Lithuania sees herself as having been forced to comply with a Polish ultimatum for restoration of diplomatic relations, suspended for years as the result of Poland's occupation of the Vilna area.

But here a belief seemed to be crystallizing that Poland, if she desired to end the long estrangement even by strong measures, had been too kind.

Demands Revised . . . nighdy Authoritative circles said that the Polish ultimatum as finally accepted was a greatly modified version of the original demands.

(The United Press reported after the receipt of the Polish ultimatum in Kaunas, Lithuania, that Germany as well as Great Britain and France had urged Poland to temper her demands in the interest of European peace.—Ed.)

Usually well informed sources said today that the original demands were not only for an exchange of ministers, and provision for their communication direct with their capitals, but—

(1) That Lithuania recognize Vilna once and for all as Polish, and blue pencil the description of Vilna, in the recently redrafted constitution, as the real capital of Lithuania.

(2) That the closed frontier be opened not only to diplomatic communication but to all kinds of traffic, particularly to timber from northern Polish forests which would thus be given an outlet over rivers and railroads through the Lithuanian port of Memel.

(3) That there be an understanding regarding economic and commercial problems envisaging a commercial treaty.

(4) That there be a settlement of the minority problem involving 200,000 Poles in Lithuania and 80,000 Lithuanians in Poland.

The first press dispatches to reach Warsaw in 20 years from a Polish correspondent in Kaunas arrived yesterday from Leon Chasnowski, of the important Democratic newspaper Kurier Warszawski.

These dispatches asserted that Lithuanian newspapers and public were opposing "Poland's effort at friendship."

GIRLS TRAINED IN ELECTRICAL REPAIR WORK

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (UP)—The mysteries of blown out fuses, short circuits and faulty electrical utensils are being taught a limited number of girl students at Nott Terrace High School in a new course—practical arts electricity.

Purpose of the special course is to equip the students in understanding and repairing of electrical household appliances.

After preliminary instruction in the various kinds of electricity and the development and uses of currents, the girls will turn to the practical field of making and repairing electrical devices.

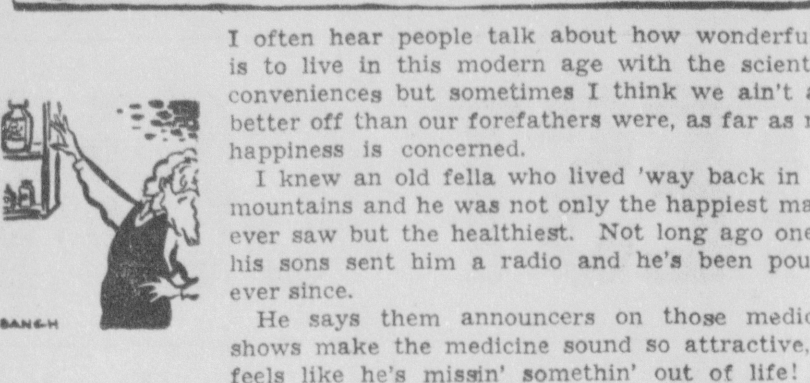

Advanced study will be centered on electricity in the home, with the girls learning how to read meters, use and replace fuses, repair electric cords and correct circuit defects.

Among the appliances to be studied will be the curling iron, hair dryer, electric clock, thermostat, waffle iron, refrigerator, electric iron, mixer motor, vacuum cleaner, electric range ventilating fan and doorbell.

In order to read intelligently, a Chinese must learn at least 3,000 characters. An educated Chinese knows approximately 30,000 characters.

OHIO UTILITIES BOARD TO SIFT BELL RATE CASE

13-Year-Old Controversy
To Be Decided Soon,
Schaber Says

$10,000 IS GRANTED

Basis Of Valuation Cited
For Long Delay

COLUMBUS, March 22—(UP)—The Ohio Public Utilities commission, enriched by a special $10,000 investigation grant, today indicated readiness to attempt again to solve the $18,000,000 Ohio Bell Telephone rate case.

Commission Chairman Charles F. Schaber said the commission "will take the bull by the horns soon" to press the 13-year-old rate dispute.

He said that the commission disclaimed responsibility for lack of progress toward a settlement since the United States supreme court last Summer threw out the commission's method of determining valuation of the company property. Telephone subscribers in 44 Ohio cities have a stake in the complex case, begun in 1925.

The state emergency board granted the special fund to the commission late yesterday after Schaber had asked for $49,900 in unearmarked funds to carry on the regular work of the commission for 1938.

After extended questioning of Schaber, particularly regarding the telephone case, the emergency board adopted a motion by Senator William Foss, Coldwater, to grant $10,000 specifically for the Bell negotiations.

Foss' motion said additional funds would be granted to conclude the valuation "if genuine need is shown."

Schaber laid blame the latest delay in the rate tangle as failure of the office of Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy and the telephone firm to agree on a basis of valuation. The company has suggested valuation on basis of individual telephone exchanges while the state has proceeded on a state wide property valuation.

City Which Caused Polish-Lithuanian Crisis

HERE is a new general view of Vilna, or Wilno, former capital of Lithuania and the border, city claimed by both Poland and Lithuania. Seized by Poland along with one-third of Lithuania's territory in 1920, the city has been a constant source of contention between the two countries.

Second Meeting to Form Cub Pack is Wednesday

The second in a series of three meetings designed to inform and train parents in Cubbing, the new younger boy program of the Boy Scouts of America, will be held Wednesday evening, March 23, at 7:30, in the Methodist Episcopal church. The committee in charge of the meetings is comprised of Mrs. Barton Deming, chairman, Mrs. Clark Will and Mrs. Guy Pettit.

The first meeting, held last Wednesday, was well-attended and members of the committee and local scout officials expressed a feeling that the proposed Circleville Cub pack was meeting with approval and enthusiasm from local parents.

Nineteen boys, each accompanied by one or more parent, attended last week's meeting, at which Howard Kautz, local field scout executive, explained Cubbing and how parents cooperated in the achievement progress of the cub. Parents and boys studied the Bobcat and Wolf requirements, practically all of the boys meeting the requirements for the initial Bobcat rank at the meeting. Questions were answered and the set-up of a Cub Pack was explained briefly.

Parents Must Attend

The local council requires the fathers and mothers of prospective cubs to participate in the parents' meetings before a pack is organized. Only boys whose parents attend the meetings will be permitted to become charter members of the local pack. Membership is open to all boys 9, 10, and 11 years old, regardless of church preference.

At Wednesday evening's meeting the cub pack and its officials, and a dramatization of a pack meeting, with the assistance of those present, will be covered. The third and last meeting, next week, will cover the cub den.

Ervin Leist, scoutmaster of Troop 107, sponsored by the Methodist church, with four scouts who are prospective den chiefs, will be present. Other than the den chiefs, Cubbing has no connection with scouting, and the two programs are distinctly different. Both fathers and mothers are urged to attend the meetings.

U. S. STEEL SOON TO FINISH PLANT

HOMESTEAD, Pa. (UP)—The largest private construction project under way in the nation—the U. S. Steel Corporation's $60,000,000 Irvin plant—is scheduled for completion this month and testing for initial production July 1.

Electrically operated throughout, the giant plant overlooking the Monongahela river near Clairton will be the largest sheet, strip and tin mill in the East and the most modern of its type in the U. S.

The plant, occupying a strip of land a mile long and a quarter of a mile wide, will be equipped with many steel fabricating machines never before put to test on a commercial scale. Of more than 40 buildings comprising the mill, two will be a half-mile long.

Ground was broken for the project 10 months ago. A summary of the work since then:

Seventy-nine contractors have worked 4,000 men in three 8-hour shifts.

Nearly 6,500,000 tons of earth have been excavated.

More than 54,000,000 tons of steel have gone into construction. Fifteen miles of railroad track have been laid to connect the plant units; eight miles of sewer pipe have been connected and 180,000 cubic yards of concrete poured.

The completed Irvin works, named after the recently retired president of U. S. Steel, will have an estimated annual capacity of 600,000 tons of sheet, strip and other light-finished steels. The plant will employ 4,000 men.

Equipment includes a refuse-treatment plant to prevent pollution of the Monongahela river and a crane capable of lifting 120,000 pounds of steel at a time.

Battleship Elimination May Be Ballotted

WASHINGTON, March 22 — (UP)—The senate received President Roosevelt's $1,121,546,000 naval expansion bill today with predictions of bitter debate on foreign affairs, neutrality and naval policy before its passage.

Chairman David I. Walsh, D. Mass., of the senate naval affairs committee, which will conduct hearings on it, indicated that the navy department would be asked to produce two secret reports that were denied the house.

The committee "probably" will demand, he said, information on a tactical maneuver off San Francisco last year in which a battleship theoretically was destroyed by aerial bombardment, and details of Captain Royal C. Ingersoll's mission in London during January.

"I think," Walsh said, "that the committee will go into those matters fully. It is entitled to any information available to the navy. We may use the information in executive session, however."

Documents Refused
During the house naval affairs committee hearings, Rep. Ralph E. Church, R. Ill., asked for both documents. When he asked for the report on the fleet maneuver Assistant Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison said:

"My feeling is that a secret report ought to remain secret to those in whom the congress of the United States has placed the responsibility for national defense."

Regarding Ingersoll's London visit, Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, refused to discuss it in public hearing, but said:

"I will make categorical reply in executive session regarding matters within my cognizance, and will tell you all about it, but I may not divulge any confidential information in open session."

These reports may become important in senate consideration of the bill to give the United States the largest peace-time navy in history because the senate was certain to revive the house controversy over the relative merits of battleships and planes.

Sen. Gerald P. Nye, R. N. D., predicted that the whole field of foreign affairs, neutrality, and naval policy would be covered in senate debate.

"I think the senate will make a finer showing than ever before against this super navy bill," he said. "At least there is a good chance to eliminate the battleships and perhaps to cut in half the other authorizations. This bill is not in the least degree for national defense."

New Dentist Invited To Open Ashville Offices

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Ashville, Phone 79

Ashville is to have another dentist, Dr. Paul Schiff, a brother of our Dr. L. C. Schiff, will be here from Cincinnati within a few days, maybe by the latter part of this week, with offices upstairs over our Dr. Schiff's office. This new dentist comes here by the invitation of Dr. Rockefeller whose practice has grown beyond the service any one dentist can give. The new dentist with his wife will temporarily take rooms at the L. C. Schiff home in East Main street.

Ashville Council in Session
The Village Council was in session Monday evening. The usual bills were allowed. The W. P. A. project which has been under consideration for some time was discussed but nothing definite was decided.

It seems to be the majority opinion that the proposed plan which means the minimum expenditure of $20,000 can not be accepted for lack of funds.

Ashville School Board Meets

The Ashville-Harrison school board which has to do only with the high school, was in session Monday evening and paid the usual number of bills. Some roof repair had attention, too. The hiring of teachers for the coming school year was not taken up at this meeting.

Ashville Farm Laborer Hurt

E. D. Bixler, while cutting wood came in too close contact with the power buzz saw severely injuring a finger of the right hand. He resides in Walnut township and is in the employ of Sam Brinker as a farm assistant.

Ashville Cain to Bloomfield

Guy Cain about April 1 will remove his grocery stock in South Bloomfield from what is known as the Price building, which he now occupies, to what is known as the Helping Hand building which is now undergoing some changes to fit his needs.

Ashville Personal Items

Charles Ebert, wife and two young daughters, Shirley Kae and Sue Ann, with Mrs. Ebert's mother are here from Des Moines, Iowa, visiting at the home of his father, D. H. Ebert. Charles is one of our high school graduates, class of 1925, who left the "old home town" and made good. With three and engineer who has been off duty for the past two or three weeks due to sickness, was able to come up one day last week and again, Monday, to give things the once over. He expects to be in harness again soon now. He has been relieved while off duty by Mr. Prince Moore.

Right-of-Way Approved

A right-of-way has been secured from the N. & W. railroad for the construction of a driveway on the west side of the Joe Fabst building. This will give to the creamery a complete circuit drive around its plant. Work on the new road has already begun and in a short time will be ready for use. The alley between the ice plant and the cement block factory has been well covered with a coating of gravel.

Ashville Change of P. T. A. Meeting

In order that the many local O. S. U. students now home on vacation may have an opportunity to attend the annual basketball banquet, the P. T. A. officials have decided to hold the banquet on Thursday evening of this week at 6:30. The regular P. T. A. meeting scheduled for that evening will be postponed to Tuesday evening of next week.

The committee plans to serve chicken and all the trimmings at this banquet at the usual nominal price and as there are only a limited number of tickets on sale for team followers, parents, etc. you would better obtain yours right away. They may be had from any team member, boy or girl, and at the school office.

Besides good eats there will be a few talks and good music by a Mt. Sterling orchestra.

Ashville Musical Concert

Mr. Brobst and Miss Plum, local music teachers, will put on a combination instrumental and vocal program in the Ashville auditorium next Friday, March 25, at 8:15 o'clock. The vocal numbers will all be by children from the schools of this township but the instrumental numbers will be by the combined Ashville-West-Jefferson orchestras. Such a program was given last Friday at West Jefferson, the Ashville boys and girls doing the traveling. They had a good turn out; let us see if Ashville can do as well, if not better.

Mrs. George Kuhn has been substituting for Mr. Murphy, Commercial teacher, who was called home to Westerville last Sunday by the death of his mother.

97 Taxpayers Put Names On Request For County To Improve Road

WHISLER-MEADE LISTED

Funds Not Available For Macadam Project

Two petitions signed by 97 landowners and taxpayers were filed with the county commissioners, Monday, asking improvement of the road leading from State Route 56 through Whisler to Meade where it joins Route 159.

A delegation of Saltcreek township residents presented the petitions to the board. The petitions asked that the road be given a surface treatment with oil or water-bound macadam. The length of the section on which the improvement is asked is 7.1 miles.

Commissioners said funds were not available at the present time to macadamize the road. The petitions were filed and will be given further consideration by the board.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Hailed as the most brilliant and delightful picture in her screen career, Lily Pons' new RKO Radio vehicle, "Hitting a New High," will open Wednesday at the Cliftona Theatre with Jack Oakie co-starred, and a novel story-plot to win new admirers among the film-going public.

Seven songs, ranging from operatic arias through classic "novelty" tunes to sparkling modern numbers, are sung by the shapely diva, who is supported by such favorites as Eric Blore, Edward Everett Horton, John Howard, Eduardo Cinnelli and Luis Alberni. Altogether, "Hitting a New High" is rated as the funniest as well as the most melodic of the famous soprano's screen vehicles.

The plot deals with the romance between Miss Pons and Howard, and with the ingenious scheme through which Oakie seeks to have her "discovered" by his publicity-seeking employer, Horton. These two themes are interwoven with the story in a hilarious, fashion, and they lead to surprising results.

VICKS VA-TRO-NOL

ARTHUR PHILLIPS NAMED AGENT FOR TERMINEX CO.

Arthur H. Phillips, 216 S. Court street, has been appointed as Circleville representative for the Buckeye Terminex Co., Columbus.

The Buckeye Terminex Co., Inc., is a member of the national termite organization, which is comprised of 53 licensees of the E. L. Bruce Co., manufacturers of Terminex. The licensees have protected more than 40,000 homes and buildings from termites.

The company offers a free inspection service without obligation to property owners.

That the plague of swarms of thousands of tiny winged insects, which annually infest homes in the Spring already has started, causing chagrin to housewives in and near Circleville, is the report of Mr. Phillips.

These insects, he stated, are termed "flying ants" by many housewives, who pour boiling water on the pests in an endeavor to eliminate them. Use of the vacuum cleaner also is said to have proved futile.

Solution of the problem, he added, is not so simple, because these "flying ants" are winged termites, which indicates that there are likely thousands of worker termites hidden in the foundation timbers and understructures of the building, and in the ground where nests are located.

These tiny insects eat wood, it is said, and have such an enormous appetite that they do more than $50,000,000 damage to homes and buildings in the United States each year.

Get at the Cause of Constipation!

You know that constipation often gives you that dopey, sunken, bogged down feeling. Why not get at the cause and fix it?

If you eat what most people do—things like bread, meat and potatoes—the chances are all that's the matter with you is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean what you may think. It's a kind of food that isn't entirely digested, but leaves a soft, bulky mass in the intestines that aids elimination.

If this is your trouble, what you need is a dish of crisp, crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. It contains the "bulk" you need, plus Nature's intestinal tonic vitamin B₁, and iron.

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and see if the old world doesn't look a lot brighter! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

so you can see neighbors have been praising the and I am wondering why servel can't make a cheaper gas refrigerator for families like ours, with limited means. Very truly yours, Mrs. E. J. Robie.

An Open Letter to Mrs. Robie Telling Why Servel Could—But Doesn't—Make a Cheaper Line of Gas Refrigerators . . .

Dear Mrs. Robie:

Your letter raises a question of interest to many housewives with limited budgets, and we are glad to answer it. The price of a gas refrigerator compares favorably with other first line automatic refrigerators, but Servel Electrolux has no second line. Why can't it make a cheaper line of refrigerators? This could easily be done, and we are listing only a few of the things that would lower the price.

Make the frame less sturdy. Reduce the gauge of steel in the cabinet and of copper in the freezing unit. Use thinner porcelain in the food compartment—cheaper finish on the cabinet. Lighten the hardware. Reduce the hundreds of factory tests 50 per cent. Eliminate safety and efficiency features. Remove the second cycle of refrigeration that furnishes reserve cold. Few would take the time to discover the difference between this cheapened model and the regular Electrolux. It probably would sell for about a third less, but we wouldn't want to sell it at any price!

We want you to expect full performance, safety and silence of a gas refrigerator year after year. Its low operating cost and absence of any moving parts to wear out in the freezing system make it the most economical refrigerator to own and operate. Most of the refrigerators we sell go to families, like your own, of limited means. If this answers your question, may we invite you to see our beautiful 1938 models? Ask how you can pay for one out of the savings it will make for you.

Most sincerely yours,

The Gas Company

SABOTAGED PROFESSIONS

IT is hard for Americans of any breed to think of medical science as having anything to do with race or religion. But apparently it has. A dispatch from Vienna immediately after the Nazification of Austria said:

"Jewish physicians were barred from the Viennese Emergency Hospital organization. This was regarded as presaging firm action against Jewish physicians, who make up a large percentage of the Austrian medical profession. Vienna has been a world medical and surgical center. "Jewish druggists were told their medical supplies might be needed by hospitals. Some voluntarily emptied their shelves and donated their goods."

At the same time an exodus of Jews in the medical and other learned professions began.

Will Vienna ever again be a great medical center, any more than it will be again a great center of music, art and general culture?

The city's medical eminence came largely from her brilliant and devoted Jewish physicians and surgeons. With them deposited, starved and driven into exile, it seems unlikely that the substitutes provided by Adolf Hitler and his goose-stepping followers will attract either Jewish or Gentile physicians and surgeons from other lands like ours, where medical science is free from tyranny or race or politics.

MERRY ARCTIC ADVENTURES

THREE sentences from Ivan Papanin's story of the Russian scientists' experience on that Arctic ice floe are interesting as they reveal the detachment with which the men regarded their situation. They had dreaded their adventure a little beforehand, he confesses. But once they faced actual danger all trace of fear vanished.

With a wild blizzard raging, and ice cracking and roaring around them, they worked to rescue such provisions as they could. A big crack just outside their storehouse door opened a bottomless stream into which they might easily have fallen. But they chopped a hole in the roof and moved the stuff away quickly. The next serious fissure appeared right under their dwelling tent, and again they moved quickly. In the meantime, the direction of the floe's movement was constantly changing. Writes Papanin:

"Yet we worked merrily together," and again, "Steel nerves were necessary to keep one's balance on such a whirling carousel," and finally, "We could have remained three months longer if the ice breakers had not reached us on Feb. 19."

Human beings have great perseverance, courage, even humor, in the face of nature's most awful terrors.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a glorious day, one that soon caused the shedding of top-coats. Tied only briefly over the coffee and then out and over the paves, noting the optimism of trees and flowers rushing toward foliage. Here a robin, there a redbird. Not a bad world at all with the return of full life.

Met Walter Nelson, who went home with a mysterious fever last Thursday and who had just ventured out for the first time since. Weak and mystified, as mystified as the medics who had no proper diagnosis. In came Paul Carruthers, back after beginning of recovery following his automobile accident, and ready to resume work.

Chatted with Wallace and Bill Crist and then dropped in on Fred Wittich, only to be informed that he was out, and "out" on such a day meant only one thing. Fred was fishing. Probably Scippo, for that is the clearest stream in the county, all others and the ponds as well being muddy. Met Earl Smith, who had tried it the day before, and reported no luck. Bowled to Mayor Bill and passed the time of day with Chief McCrady, who reported everything quiet.

Here comes Ralph Leach, all smiles because Air Stream Jake is home and giving all the promise of a champion. Jake has been spending a few months in the care of William Cosner at Okolana, Miss. Cosner being one of the nation's best bird dog trainers.

Saw a midget truck on the streets and Ed Sensenbrenner standing nearby with a far-away look in his eye. Ed was recalling that about 20 years ago an inventor promised great things for a little truck similar to the one Ed was eyeing this very day. One car was built here and on its first run attained a speed of 70 miles an hour. Roy Kuntz on a motor bike ate that little truck's dust. Great things were in store for the small vehicle, or so thought local men who had invested in it. But they never cashed in on their investment. Ed doesn't remember just how much money he lost or who were the other investors.

Frank Lynch dropped in to install a Coca Cola dispensing machine back in the hot composing room. I'll bet that machine makes more money than the paper this Summer.

OLD GUARD GANGED UP

WASHINGTON—How close Old Guard Democrats and Republicans are working together against the New Deal and how fierce is their vendetta was illustrated by a secret conversation which took place in the Senate lounge the other day.

The lounge is reserved for Senators only, and in it they read the papers, take cat-naps, and while away their time during a dull debate. On this particular occasion Josiah Bailey, anti-Roosevelt Democrat from North Carolina was chatting with Walter E. Edge, staunch Republican and formerly Hoover's Ambassador to France.

Edge was entitled to sit in the Senate lounge because he was once Senator from New Jersey, and he effusively congratulated the Democratic Senator on his anti-New Deal speeches.

"You are doing a great job, Senator," Edge told Bailey. "There is no one in the Republican Party doing nearly as effective work as you are in exposing the evils and dangers of this regime. You must get your speeches out to the people; they must be broadcast all over the country."

"That is already being done, Senator," Bailey assured him. "More than a million and a half copies of my speeches have been ordered from the Government Printing Office by twenty organizations and are being distributed in every section of the land."

"Splendid, splendid!" exclaimed Edge. "That's the way to proceed."

"Yes, it is very encouraging," said Bailey, "but there is a great deal more to be done. The insurance companies ought to cooperate. They should be contacted by the proper persons and mailing lists obtained of their policy holders. There are millions of their policy holders who should be warned that their money and property are being jeopardized by the policies of this administration."

"That's an excellent suggestion, Senator," declared Edge. "It should be acted on at once. That is the class of people we want to reach. And I want you to know that I am with you 100 per cent. My time is all my own now. I have nothing to do and I am ready to help you in any way I can. I am enlisted in your cause for the duration of the fight."

SPEAKER BANKHEAD

When it comes to neatness around the House of Representatives, Speaker Bankhead believes that cleanliness is next to godliness. He has given orders for polishing brass rails on the stairways and for replacing shallow cuspidors with tall sand-filled receptacles.

Reason for the latter change is that the tall receptacle is easier to aim at, and Bankhead doesn't like to see the mess around a low cuspidor.

The other day, while striding toward the chamber to open the session of the House, he snapped his cigarette toward a cuspidor, and missed. Instead of passing by, he stopped, stooped, picked up the cigarette and deposited it with gentle care.

Looks as if there'll be too many vacations this Summer.

One More Wedding

by HELEN WELSHIMER

READ THIS FIRST:

Garry Page, New York columnist, has just sailed for a few weeks abroad. Among his friends at the pier to see him on his way to Europe was a young girl named Ruth Merryweather. Ruth had come to New York to see Garry on a child magazine at the suggestion of her close friend Natalie Kendall. Barbara, an author and friend of Garry, had come to New York to see Garry on a child magazine at the suggestion of her close friend Natalie Kendall. Barbara, an author and friend of Garry, had come to New York to see Garry on a child magazine at the suggestion of her close friend Natalie Kendall.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 8
BARBARA'S eyes were wide and quite dark as they rested on Jack Metcalf's cynical face, when he had finished explaining that Bill Jameson, the man with Ruth Merryweather at a table at the Versailles, was the one whom Ruth had loved.

"I thought you told me this morning that it would be better if I did not know the man's name, so I would not recognize him," she said slowly, then.

"But you guessed it. It was in your eyes."
"You misread them. Bill Jameson married a girl from home a few weeks ago. I met Garry Page at the wedding." Then her face brightened. "There, that's his wife, Marie Rinehart, joining them now."

Marie, who had been dancing with a blonde young man, had returned to the table and Bill leaned towards her devotedly. Only Barbara saw the quick glance and the clouded pain in Ruth Merryweather's eyes—sensed it rather than saw it.

Jack Metcalf talked on. "Ruth's a good sport. She's spending some of the breakfast food money showing the small town girl whom her lost love married, how gay we are along the Main Stem. It's all poppycock. She owed the guy and lost him so why doesn't she drop the subject? There are plenty of men willing to play her kind of ring-around-the-rosie."

Ruth was standing up. She was slipping into a white jacket that was part of a white party frock. She picked up a rhinestone bag and her gloves. Marie, in a chiffon that had been part of the troupe, that Barbara had described as the Martinville Fox, slipped into a cape. The party was leaving.

Barbara averted her eyes. Ruth would not recognize her tonight. That one brief glimpse at the sailing party hardly had been worth preserving. However, she did know Jack and Ray Lipton. It would be embarrassing to be introduced all over again. As for Marie—Barbara's lips tightened slightly as she remembered the manner in which her cousin Julia had confided in everyone that she, Barbara, had deliberately set out to vamp Garry Page. Maybe Marie would laugh lightly about that story on their way home tonight, and Ruth would be amused.

But it was to Barbara that Ruth Merryweather spoke. "Hello!" she held out her hand. "You let yourself be kidnapped from the dock this morning before I had a chance to follow Garry's instructions." Garry's instructions—just the mention of Garry's name was sweet and comforting. It gave reality to the moment. But Ruth was not through. "Are you free for lunch some day next week? Will you meet me? That's lovely. I'll give you a ring about 11, perhaps Wednesday."

She scribbled Barbara's telephone number on a corner of a menu and stuffed it in the shining bag. Behind her, Marie stretched her hand towards Barbara. "Babbs Kingsley, what are you doing here?"

The queen might have asked the scullery maid how she got into the royal ballroom in the same tone of voice. "Working," Barbara answered. "How was Europe?"

"Awfully hot. Where are you living?"

"I'm hunting an apartment."

An idea that had been growing stronger and stronger in Barbara's mind suddenly sprang full-grown. She would sacrifice in clothes, entertainment, food. But she would have a living room where her friends could come. She would build a refuge against the glitter and the roar. Already she had learned that it could be wearing.

But if she had an open wood fire, her own books on the shelves, a few deep chairs and lamps that laid ambient pools of light across the floor—She shut the door of her mind firmly. She was seeing

The grocery firm of Chris and Edward Wolf was dissolved.

There goes Ben Gordon, the councilman-merchant, and here comes Mack Parrett, the realtor. Turned attentive ear to reports of contemplated home building this Spring. Learned that two neighbors, and fine ones two, soon are to leave the ville and establish themselves on a farm, the Paul Valentines and the Frank Goffs. Jacob Bowers, the retired farmer, who lives only three houses away also voiced regrets and at the same time hope that the new neighbors have no dogs, "for we have more than enough now." If ours were more than half a dog I might have thought that a slam at "pooch." However, she is noisy, believing it her duty to chase every dog that shows in the neighborhood, and I don't know how to break her of barking, which is in an extremely high tenor.

"Are you free for lunch some day next week?"

Garry Page in one of the chairs, long, relaxed, smiling. "May I stay here alone a moment? I want to learn the feel of the room."

But when she was alone she walked to the windows and looked down into the streets. This was hers! Her home. The first abiding place that had been really her own. She could hang out the late-linestrings or take it in. She could type all night and sleep all day. And nobody could stop her.

There were lights in the other brick houses up and down the street. A few children rolled skated merrily. A flower vendor was rolling his colored cart toward Sixth Avenue and the subway stations. A hurdy-gurdy was playing a song from summer before last which he never had thrown away. She began to hum the words, and then threw the man a quarter.

Tomorrow she would buy some deep wire material for draperies and cushions to replace those the owner had packed away. In a day or two her lease would begin and she would live here.

For a moment she wondered what the living room would see in the months to come. Love, heartache, joy, success, people coming to tea—Garry coming to dinner—Garry in that lounging chair—Garry putting another log on the fire. . . .

She would have the apartment ready when he came home. Maybe she would welcome him back with a homecoming dinner for just a few people.

She closed the door. The apartment was a walk-up out she did not mind the three flights. The woodwork of the staircase was rosewood and cream, and the carpets were deep and dark blue.

She had time to shop the next morning before she was to meet Ruth. The wealthy girl had called her at 10 instead of 11 and asked her to come to her family's apartment for lunch rather than meeting downtown. Happy because she had found the right red rose shade in heavy curtains of wool and silk, and a still heavier stuff for a studio couch cover and a dozen cushions, she rang the bell at the Merryweather penthouse.

Ruth, in a pair of thin gold silk lounging pajamas, was gay and friendly. Her rooms were gold and ivory that backgrounded her perfectly. She was sincere, simple, merry. But Barbara thought that she cloud never quite left her blue eyes. They were naving luncheon on the terrace. The table had been set under a parasol that looked like a giant yellow mushroom. They were eating iced melon balls, when the maid came with a yellow envelope in her hand.

"A cable, Miss Ruth," she said deferentially.

"A cable?" Ruth asked and glanced down at it. Then her brows smoothed. "Oh yes, of course. From Garry."

Foods That Form Alkali Reaction in Body

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
I AM REQUESTED to print a list of alkali-forming foods.

Alkalinization of the body has been so promiscuously advised from sources outside the medical profession, that it is well to point out there are very few indications for this procedure. It is mostly used when the kidneys give an indication of being overburdened.

Alkaline-ash foods contain a preponderance of sodium carbonate and bicarbonate and alkali phosphates. They are found chiefly in fruits and vegetables.

Alkalinization of the body can be most easily influenced by the administration of the alkaline salts, such as sodium bicarbonate or potassium citrate themselves. But for the use of the alkaline-ash diet, a milder degree of acid-base disturbance in the body is present.

Foods Listed for Menus
The following list permits preparation of menus for this purpose:
VEGETABLES: Asparagus, beans, beets, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery, cucumbers, endive, leeks, lettuce, mushrooms, parsnips, peas, potatoes, pumpkin, radishes, spinach, tomatoes, turnips, watercress.

EXCEPTIONS: Lentils, fresh or canned corn. MISCELLANEOUS: jelly, maple syrup, olives, whey wine. FRUITS: Apples, apricots, bananas, blackberries, cantaloupe, cherries, currants, dates, figs, grapefruit, grapes, lemons, limes, oranges, peaches, pears, pineapple raisins, rhubarb, strawberries, watermelon. EXCEPTIONS: Prunes, plums, cranberries.

Since the foregoing lists omit the commonest breadstuffs and fats, note that the following food are often called "neutral" in their effect on the residue of the diet: CARBOHYDRATES: Cornstarch or corn flour, fresh peas, sugar, tapioca. FATS: Butter, cream, lard, vegetable oils.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

VII was forced to renounce the Austrian throne and Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and modern Poland were created.

Meeting Attracts 115

Prize Awarded for Largest Attendance

Approximately 115 persons were in attendance at the meeting of Washington Parent-Teacher association, Monday evening, when an unusually interesting and diversified program was presented by Howard Huston.

The business meeting was in charge of Mrs. C. H. Palm and during this hour, the new attendance banner was presented the organization by Wendell Boyer. The banner has been purchased since the last meeting and is creating much interest in school attendance each week.

The fourth and fifth grade room, taught by Miss Nellie Kuhn, won the prize Monday evening for the best percentage of parents in attendance at the P.-T. A. meeting. The prize was $1 and a similar prize will be awarded at each meeting for the rest of the year. It was voted to sponsor the Summer round-up for pre-school children, the date to be set later.

The program as arranged by Mr. Huston, included music by the German Band, of the Stoutsville high school; vocal duet, Mary Katherine and Helen Bowman; recitation, by Earl Palm; a talk on St. Patrick's Day and stories, Alton Noggle of Clear Creek school, and a clever chalk talk by George Valentine.

Refreshments were served by the hospitality committee, which included Mrs. Albert Davis, chairman, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ott, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rife, Mr. and Mrs. Huston and Mrs. Palm.

Mrs. Phillips Entertains

All members were present, Monday evening, when Mrs. G. D. Phillips entertained her bridge club. Three tables of contract bridge were in play during the evening with favors awarded at the close to Miss Besse Frey and Mrs. Clarence Hott.

Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Mrs. Allen Thornton invited the club to meet with her for its next session.

Bridge Club Meets

Mrs. Frank Goff, Miss Lillian Young and Mrs. C. D. Bennett were guests, Monday evening, when Mrs. Earl Price, Edison avenue, entertained the members of her three table bridge club.

When scores were taken after several rounds of contract bridge, trophies were awarded Mrs. A. H. Rodgers and Miss Young. Confections were served at the tables. Mrs. T. R. Burke, Pinckney street, will be next club hostess.

Mrs. Hammel Hostess

Mrs. George Hammel was hostess to her two table contract bridge club, Monday evening, at her home in N. Court street. Mrs. T. P. Brown and Mrs. A. J. Lyle received prizes at the conclusion of play. Candies were served at the tables during the games.

Golden Wedding Celebration

Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Watts have returned home after spending Sunday and Monday in Toledo where they attended the golden wedding celebration of Dr. Watts' brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. B.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

When placing the hotbed or coldframe, choose a location which gives protection from cold north winds.

As shown in the above Garden-Graph, a stone or brick wall is an ideal background for hotbed or cold frame. Not only is the frame protected from winds, but when the sun strikes the stone or brickwork the heat is deflected down upon the bed.

When a stone or brick wall is not available, place the frame in front of a hedge, shrubby border, garage building or a temporary fence of boards.

flour, salt and liquor from liver. Combine all ingredients, mixing thoroughly. Form into loaf two inches high and place in greased pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 45 minutes. If necessary, pour one-fourth cup water around loaf to keep moist. This loaf will serve six.

HOT PLUM TAPIOCA — One-fourth cup granulated sugar, one-eighth teaspoon salt, three tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, one 12-ounce can plum nectar, one tablespoon butter or margarine, cream. Combine the sugar, salt, tapioca and plum nectar in a double boiler. Cook over hot water for 20 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove from heat and add butter.

LIVER LOAF—One pound beef liver, one small onion, five slices bacon, one tablespoon bacon fat, one tablespoon flour, one fourth teaspoon salt, two-thirds cup liquor from liver, two-thirds cup bread crumbs, one egg, slightly beaten. Buy liver in one piece. Wash and skin. Simmer 45 minutes without adding water. Remove large veins. Put liver through food chopper with onion. Dice bacon fine. Fry out the fat. Drain on absorbent paper. Prepare a sauce of fat,

REDS MEET SENATORS

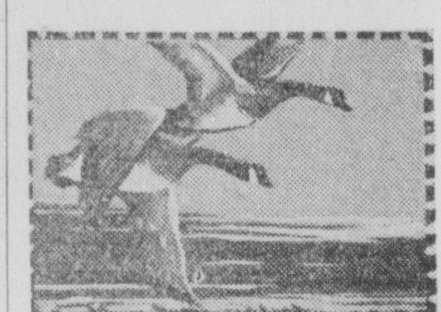

ORLANDO, Fla., March 22 — (UP)—The Cincinnati Reds, winners in six out of seven exhibition games, take their first shot this year at the Washington Senators today. Only tilt lost by the Reds was to the world champion New York Yankees, and they avenged that one with a 9-6 victory over the Yanks yesterday. Frank McCormick, Red first baseman, got a triple and three singles. Washington has lost its only two starts to major league teams.

Wild Geese Hold High Moral Code

By "DING" DARLING

IF EVER a bird is selected to symbolize the whole of North America, my choice will be the Canada goose.

This stalwart navigator of the airways is known from the Gulf of Mexico to the Hudson Bay country.

He is wise and wary, yet lion hearted when called on to defend his mate and young.

He has maintained fair numbers of his kind despite all of the crimes of civilization against the kindred of the wild.

Spring and fall, in V formation the sky fleets go up and down across the continent. They move on an accurate schedule fixed by temperature. When the mercury hits 35 above with the northward advance of Spring, the cohorts of the Canadian honkers appear on the mating flight, and in Fall, they drift southward ahead of the freeze-up.

No sound on earth has the wild charm of the call of geese, floating down from the upper air lanes to the farm boy at the plow, to the city man in a crowded street, to the wilderness trapper, a signal of the approach of winter, then of Spring.

Once the Canada goose nested by millions within the borders of the United States, on our western lakes and sloughs. Now a wider region is sought for rearing families although in a few sections of the country Canada geese that have been reared in sanctuaries nest close to the home grounds.

The Canada goose mates for life. A widow or widower will go for years without re-mating. While the mother goose is on the nest, the male is never far distant, and he will unhesitatingly risk his life to protect her.

The family, seldom larger than five or six, sticks together long after the young are full grown. If the family group is broken up, a young goose shows the lack of parental influence and sometimes will behave very foolishly.

Canada geese live to be very old. They quickly become tame, and are highly intelligent. There are records along the Atlantic coast of Canada geese more than fifty years old.

Jack Miner, of Kingsville, Ont., has for years kept a sort of hotel for geese. They are his guests during the migration journeys, as many as 5,000 gathering in his ponds. Jack Miner, by the way, was a pioneer in bird-banding. The geese he tagged and released carried not only identification numbers, but also a verse from the Bible, on aluminum leg bands. Between the Biological Survey's banding records and those of Jack Miner the migratory history of the Canadian Honker is the most complete of any species of wild fowl.

KELTNER OUSTS SAM HALE FROM THIRD BASE JOB

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 22 — (UP)—The Cleveland Indians are almost certain to open the championship American league campaign next month with a rookie at the important third base position.

This was practically assured today when the veteran Sammy Hale, who played the post most of last season, left the Tribe's training camp for Hot Springs, Ark.

Hale's throwing arm is "dead" and he was sent to the Arkansas resort in the hope treatments there would return the member to normal.

Hale was bothered with a weak arm last season. It was believed an abscessed tooth was responsible for the condition. This proved false however, and this Spring Hale had his tonsils removed in an effort to get at the root of his trouble.

Hale is expected to remain at Hot Springs at least two weeks and will take light workouts there with the Milwaukee club of the American Association.

With Hale removed from the picture temporarily, the rookie Ken Keltner is without opposition at third base. Keltner has been one of the outstanding new stars of the training season. However, he still has to prove his ability to hit major league pitching.

The Indians had a light drill yesterday and were to meet the New Orleans Pelicans in an exhibition drill today.

JACKSON SQUAD CLAIMS SECOND IN TOURNAMENT

Finals, Exhibitions Thrill Fans At Monday Evening C.A.C. Program

By Franklin Kibler

Circleville high school won the 1938 Pickaway county amateur boxing tournament, Monday night, for the second consecutive year.

Jackson township was second and Washington third. Presentation of the trophy to Robert Terhune, high school principal and coach of the boxing team, was made by John Heiskell, announcer of the events, at the conclusion of final bouts in three classes. Carroll Woodruff, coach of the Jackson team, and Loren Straight, coach of Washington, were introduced. If Circleville wins the 1939 event the trophy remains in its possession permanently.

Due to the success of this year's tournament, another will be sponsored next year, C. A. C. officials said. Permanent rules for the operation of the tournament will be established by coaches.

Three Finals Fought

Five fast bouts and a wrestling match were on the Monday card. Three of the events were tournament finals.

Roy Burckwell, 139, of Washington township, won a decision over Earl Garner, 142, of Circleville, in a four round bout to settle the welterweight championship.

Paul Kennedy, 152, Jackson township, won a decision over Gene Arledge, 149, Circleville, in a three-round tilt in the middleweight final. Although Kennedy put Arledge on the floor in the first round the Circleville youngster came back and stayed through the fight. Kennedy was the 1937 lightweight champion.

In the light-heavyweight final, Bill Merriman, 165, of Circleville, won the decision over Paul Thompson, 165, of Jackson township.

Two special events brought together Floyd Burckwell, 128, Washington township, the 1938 featherweight champion, and Pete Dewey, 126, of Circleville, and Homer Patrick, 135, Washington township, and Warren Lutz, 140, of Circleville.

Dewey won the decision over Burckwell. He was presented a watch by the athletic club. Burckwell was given a punching bag. Lutz earned the decision over Patrick.

All Bout's Fast

Every bout was fast and plenty of hard punches were landed, but there were no knockouts.

Spike Ashby, of Flint, Mich., failed to show up for his match with Eddie Watson, Circleville.

Max Lynch, Ashville, substituted. Watson won the match with a toe hold. Watson received a bad bruise on the right side of his face when he was thrown on the resin.

Ralph Wallace and Cummings Robinson refereed the boxing bouts, Frank Davis, the wrestlers. Judges were Charles Scott, Norman Aronson and Even Merriman.

STATE BASEBALL TEAM LOSES TO W. AND L. NINE

LEXINGTON, Va., March 22 — (UP)—Ohio State's touring baseball team was to play the second game of a southern barnstorming trip here today against Washington and Lee.

The Bucks lost their opener yesterday to the Generals by a 3 to 2 margin. Washington and Lee secured its winning run in the ninth.

After Washington and Lee had scored once in the fourth and again in the fifth, Ohio State tied the count with a two run spurge in the seventh. Then the southern team pushed across the winning counter on a squeeze play in the ninth.

FORTY-FOUR APPOINTED TO CONDUCT REFERENDUM ON LIGHT CONTRACT

EACH ELECTION BOOTH WORKER TO RECEIVE $5

Boulevard System Issue To Be Decided April 26 In Circleville

Forty-four workers for the special election to be held in Circleville on April 26 on the city's street-lighting contract with the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company were announced Tuesday.

The special election will be held between 6:30 a. m. and 6:30 p. m. Since no candidates are involved there will be only four workers in each of the 11 precincts instead of the usual six for a general election. Each will receive $5 instead of the usual $8. The issue is decided by a majority vote.

The city's contract with the utility, passed by council and attacked with a referendum provides for the installation of 60 boulevard lights in the downtown district. The system would be similar to the type used in Hillsboro. Lights would be installed on wood poles.

Following is the list of the workers, including their designations as presiding judges, judges, and clerks:

First Ward, Precinct A; Democrat, Roy Stout, p. j., Margaret Crist, c., Republican, Mrs. Grace Dunlap, j., and Helen Fausnaugh, c.; Precinct B, Democrat, Frank L. FIVE MEETINGS ARRANGED FOR YOUTHS OF CITY

Series of five meetings to be conducted in Memorial hall in a course in "boyology" were announced Tuesday.

The course will be presented by a committee consisting of Robert Terhune, high school principal; James I. Smith, Jr., Boy Scout chairman, and the Rev. Robert T. Kelsey, pastor of First Presbyterian church.

Meetings are scheduled on successive Wednesday evenings, including April 6, 13, 20, 27 and May 4. The course will be conducted by the Central Ohio Boy Scout council. It is free and open to parents, teachers, Scout leaders and Sunday school workers. They begin at 7:30 o'clock and continue until 9.

Subjects for the meeting are: April 6, "Games, Stunts and Fun for Boys," and "The Nature of the Boy," April 13, "Fun with Junk," and "The Business of Growing Up," April 20, "Beating the Indians at Their Own Game," and "Using the Community's Resources to Build Men," April 27, "Discovering Your Back Yard," and "Hobbying to Health and Happiness with Youth," and May 4, "Performance Through Purposeful Planning," and "The Individual in American Democracy."

PORTSMOUTH YOUTH, 20, HELD FOR GRAND JURY

William Williams, 20, of Portsmouth, arrested in Circleville Saturday night by the sheriff's department for Portsmouth police, pleaded guilty to two charges of robbery and was bound to the grand jury under $2,000 bond in Portsmouth municipal court, Monday.

Williams told police he held up Mrs. F. W. Chase, Sciotoville, and fled with her purse. He admitted also that he stole jewelry valued at more than $50 from the home of his brother, Charles, where he had been given a place to sleep. Mrs. Chase, wife of a Sciotoville minister, was robbed as she left radio station WPAV where she had appeared on a program. A toy pistol was used in the holdup.

CROWD LAUGHS, JOKES AS THREE GO TO GALLOWES

Men Who Abducted Aged Anti-Saloon League Official Hanged

(Continued from Page One) he cried out, exultantly. "I hope to see every face in Heaven with me. God bless you all. Goodbye."

Adkins Smiles It was Adkins' turn. He had been smiling when the guards picked him up in the pit, he had smiled while they tested the trap, and he was still smiling.

"I want to see you all in Heaven," he said. "I know God will forgive. I am sorry for the family of Dr. Seder. Heaven is glory and I will meet you there. Goodbye. God bless you all."

Warden Stone pressed a buzzer. Three guards below the gallows pulled three levers, and Adkins and Travis dropped through the traps. Two of the levers were dummies. The device is one to prevent the guards knowing which one was the actual executioner.

The 80 witnesses were ushered out with some difficulty, the bodies were cut down, and 60 more witnesses were brought in to watch Booth die. He was 21 years older than his companions and had not appealed his conviction. Adkins and Travis appealed theirs, contending that he had been the master mind and had influenced them to participate in the crime.

Booth's audience was even more noisy than had been the first, and Warden Stone spoke out sharply: "kindly be a little more quiet, please."

Booth's gallows speech was: "I would like to offer a little prayer. I want to ask God to bless those two boys who went before me. I want God to take the burden off my father's heart and comfort the mothers of those boys. I ask God to bless the warden and all the prison guards and pray to the Lord to receive me."

Another Man Blamed

A few hours before his execution, Booth, according to his attorney, told department of justice agents that a man living in Cleveland, who has never been arrested, had been the "brains" of the kidnapping. Dr. Seder was kidnapped from his home in Huntington, W. Va., Nov. 1 and held for 11 days in an abandoned coal mine where he was subjected to brutal privations. He escaped his prison, but died four days later of exposure. The kidnappers demanded $50,000 ransom. It was not paid.

CHIEF OF T.V.A. FACES OUSTER OR SUSPENSION

Agreement On Probe Form Not Yet Determined By Congress Leaders

Asserting that he intended to retract nothing, he said:

"Summed up, my attitude is that I do not choose to run away."

There was doubt among administration officials and congressmen of the President's power to remove a T. V. A. director from office. But it was apparent that such a move was contemplated when Roosevelt told Dr. Morgan that "only two courses appear open—either your removal or your suspension."

Sen. George W. Norris, Ind., Neb., "father" of the T. V. A. reiterated his belief that Dr. Morgan should resign. If he refuses he should be removed rather than suspended, Norris said, lest suspension delay appointment of a successor.

Barkley contended that the presidential power of removal is analogous to that held by the chief executive over postmasters. Both are administrative officers, he said, and Dr. Morgan holds no judicial or quasi-judicial powers which might preclude removal.

Barkley favors broadening any investigation in the situation to include power companies in their relation to the T. V. A.—any attempts they may have made to oppose the agency.

In the house, Rep. Maury Maverick, D. Tex., staunch friend of T. V. A., continued to demand an inquiry.

"I still think a full fledged investigation should be held, and by a joint congressional committee," he said. "The public is entitled to know the facts, regardless of whether Dr. Morgan is fired or not. The only trouble is that an investigation by the house and senate might not be the right kind of investigation."

ADVENTURER, 22, RELEASED AFTER HELPING REBELS

GIBRALTAR, March 22.—(UP)—Guy Castle, 22-year-old Washington, D. C., youth, who made an unsuccessful attempt to escape from a Nationalist hospital after having been wounded on the Aragon front, arrived here today from Seville with his mother, Harriet Bayne Castle.

Castle, who enlisted with the Nationalist forces for adventure, escaped a court martial as a deserter through the intervention of wealthy Gibraltar friends of Gen. Gonzalo Queipo De Liano, Nationalist commander in southern Spain.

Castle still supports himself with a cane because of wounds in the right foot and left thigh.

He said he enlisted simply for adventure and not because he was a fervent adherent of the rebel cause. He said Gen. Francisco Franco had "scarcely an American on his side."

Castle was captured when he left the hospital at La Linea and attempted to swim to Gibraltar. In the darkness he misjudged the distance and landed a few feet from British territory where he was taken when dogs aroused Nationalist guards.

His mother who had been visiting him daily at the hospital, went to Seville and successfully intervened on his behalf. They plan to embark for New York aboard the Conte Di Savoia Friday.

moved into the property owned by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hiatt.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mowery and family of Columbus and Mr. and Mrs. Harley Mowery of Circleville were the Sunday guests of Mrs. Clara Macklin.

Termites

MAY BE EATING AWAY TIMBERS OF YOUR HOME

Hidden from sight inside of wood-work, Termites by the millions do serious damage. Few buildings are safe from their attack. Repairs are very costly and new damage will occur unless Termites are shut out. Bonded Terminix Insulation is the one reliable and proven method of termite control. The five-year written guarantee fully protects you.

The chemical Terminix is a product of and guaranteed by E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., world's largest maker of hard-wood preservatives.

PLAN FOR RT. 22 CHANGES TOLD AT C. C. SESSION

Elimination Of Several Curves Provided In State Program

(Continued from Page One) in federal funds and a similar amount matched by the state. The improvement would require from nine months to a year for completion.

Mr. Turner said the improvement had been listed on his program for many years and every consideration had been given in preparing plans for the project to protect the agricultural interests in the vicinity.

Hearing on the proposed road change will be held in the courthouse at 10 a. m. on April 15. Property owners who are involved in the improvement are Howard L. Thomas, Mrs. Nannie W. Foreman, Charles H. and Tully Bass and Joseph S. Smith.

After the explanation of the improvement by the engineers an open discussion was conducted.

Forty businessmen and interested landowners attended the meeting.
